185 Flinders Lane,
Melbourne, Victoria, Australia

OVERVIEW: Art Gallery

PROJECT VALUE: $0.5M

ROLE: Builder

DESCRIPTION

Anna Schwartz Gallery is located in the heart of Melbourne. Baracon was honored to have worked with Anna on the internal fit out of her gallery through its long-term association with Anna's husband Morry Schwartz.

The gallery is minimalistic with the focus as it correctly should be on the art being exhibited, however behind the open space is a lot of design though, floors are sealed concrete with large imposing white walls around the perimeter, lighting is crucial and the high turn down concrete beamed roof painted white almost makes the ceiling disappearing into the walls.

Suitable electrical reticulation around the perimeter allows Anna the flexibility with the open floor space to create isolate display area.

Included in Baracon's scope was the fit out of offices for Anna's staff that oversee the daily operation of the galleries. The project was short in duration, only 5 weeks; the result is timeless and enduring.

Art displayed punches itself from the wall and the gallery after many years of operation has stood the test of time with the continuing-varying array of artist that Anna brings in through her gallery.
